2025 UCAIR Annual Summit Looks to the Future of Air Quality

Salt Lake City, Utah — The Utah Clean Air Partnership (UCAIR) is proud to announce the 2025 UCAIR Annual Summit, taking place on Thursday, May 15 at the Natural History Museum of Utah. This year's Summit theme, "From the Past to the Future," reflects a renewed focus on innovation, partnership, and long-term strategies to improve Utah's air quality.

"With strong partnerships and forward-thinking solutions, we can continue to make progress on air quality," said Lindsie Smith, Executive Director of UCAIR. "This Summit is about sharing ideas, celebrating successes, and committing to cleaner air for Utahns."

This year's event is made possible through the generous support of dedicated sponsors, including Title Sponsor Chevron and Presenting Sponsors Price Real Estate, Maverik, and Big West Oil.

Event Highlights Include:

Remarks from Natalie Gochnour, Director of the Kem C. Gardner Policy Institute and Associate Dean at the David Eccles School of Business.

Recognition of the 2025 UCAIR Awardees for their contributions to Utah's air quality:

- Brad Wilson, CEO of the 2034 Salt Lake City Winter Olympic Committee and former Speaker of the Utah House of Representatives – Lifetime Achievement Award
- Corbin Anderson, retired Air Quality Bureau Manager, Salt Lake County Health Department – Individual Partner of the Year
- Kensington Investment Co. & Astra Tower – Business Partner of the Year
- Sustainability Practices & Research Center, Weber State University – Community Partner of the Year

About the UCAIR Annual Summit

The UCAIR Summit is Utah's premier gathering of business leaders, scientists, advocates, and community members committed to air quality solutions. The event will showcase successful initiatives and strategies that help improve air quality and public health.
